Editorially Speaking

And what, my fair lady, is your project for the day? It's Monday; is it washing? It's Tuesday; is it ironing? It's Wednesday; is it prayer meeting? Thursday, ladies aid society? Friday, sewing circle? Saturday, baking? Sunday, church? Ooops, born too soon. Before the Yellow Pages. Before the modern trend. Before juvenile delinquency.

Nowadays isn't Monday for Mother's Club where one raises money for neighborhood projects? Tuesday is for lectures on how to raise the younguns. Wednesday is for bridge or golf or bowling. Thursday is for Garden Club and Friday is for the church committee that is to raise money through a supper or fair or cake bake or something. Saturday is for family except that one must get ready for the party that night. Sunday is for sleeping and, if one wakes up in time, for church and for open house and friends dropping in and barbecues and picnics and boating, etc. Oh yes, if there is nothing else to do, consult the Yellow Pages.

That is for shopping, the beauty parlor, the service station for the car and so on and so on. But as we check it carefully, we find no heading for family, son, daughter or children. Just related things like services and clubs and schools and churches and all kinds of things, and adult education that will improve one, help one to be a better mother and wife and fulfill one's civic duty.

And the kids and friend husband? Well they just have to go along while mother improves herself, learns to be a better mother and wife from the experts, takes her lessons in bowling, "And just last week the girls said we just couldn't get along without her after the $8.59 profit on the last project that went to a new ping pong table for the youth center."

The boy and girl who gets out of hand usually does so because he or she has no rock to tie to, no sense of security, no confidence and always feels that he or she is living in a place of strangers.

Such a one is very susceptible to anyone who gives a little attention. One joins the crowd because there is so little companionship at home. The leader proposes; the one follows. The minor deviations become major and mother and dad just don't understand.

After all, "I worked so hard to find out how to do the job just right maybe I wasn't at home very much to apply it. But I did so want to know how."

Americans are a nation of joiners and organizers and from this has come many worthwhile improvements. But hasn't it gotten a bit out of hand?

Everybody is just a little hypomanic about it all. Everybody wants to be president and everybody wants to have the adulations of others. After all, "We just couldn't get along without you."

Wouldn't it be much better to hear, "Mom, we just couldn't get along without you"? The Yellow Pages can provide everything but love and security. Only mom can do that, and she has to be at home to do it.

Mom, of course, can rationalize by kidding herself that the kids are at school, get their lunch there and don't need her.

In the life of every child there is sometimes daily, always weekly, an emergency situation. If this happens during school hours, as it frequently does, or on the way home, as it more frequently does, where is mom? Out improving herself. And the child? The home is just a house because only mom can make the house a home and give the needed security.

Juvenile misbehavior might be markedly reduced if more of them would.

Little Known Medical History

Charles C. Dennie

Dar Stofer was a great friend of the late Alex Green who was president of Nelly Don Garment Company. Like most important executives he, too, had ulcers.

Both Dr. Stofer and Mr. Green liked to fish in Michigan which was the boyhood home of Mr. Green. They went fishing one day without the other knowing it.

Dr. Stofer always carried his blood transfusion outfit with him when he went on vacation. On the third day of his journey as he was nearing the town of Bad Axe, Michigan, he saw a familiar motor car just ahead of him beside the road, and there in the ditch lay Alex Green with the ditch water running over his entire body except for his face. The running water was colored red from the hemorrhage that Alex had just had.

Dar carried him to his car and placed him in the back with his head on the floor and his legs on the seat because that is the only way he could get enough blood to Alex's head to keep him from passing out.

He turned around and drove back to the city of Bad Axe where they had a primitive hospital. There were only two people in the hospital and Dar selected the one that he thought would have blood compatible with that of Alex's blood. He had no sooner got his transfusion going and the patient had received only two ounces when he heard a groan, he turned around and Alex's face was pale. He was having a reaction from the transfusion. Dar stopped the transfusion, in time.

Alex gave him the address of a brother living in Michigan. Dar made a telephone call to the brother and told him the condition of Alex. He asked him to get over to the hospital as soon as possible that he was sure they could use his blood.

By using fruit jars of hot water he was able to keep Alex alive until his brother arrived. He placed them on a table side by side and Dar started the transfusion. Everything was going all right, but Dar, in enthusiasm for saving Alex's life, forgot how much blood he was using until the brother said, in a faint voice, "are you going to kill me to save that ....?" Dar had to stop the transfusion and give some of the blood back to Alex's brother.

Dr. Stofer is now living in California. During one of his visits several years ago, Alex Green had a luncheon for him and it was at this luncheon that Dar told this story.

Public Relations Tip

In many areas, doctors have begun to recognize the need for a continuous relationship — not simply treatment when the patient is ill, but regular examinations to maintain good health. This is a sensible practice from a physical point of view and is psychologically correct as well since it is an indication on the part of the doctor of his constant interest in his patients' welfare. A simple reminder that it is time for a checkup should be a part of every doctor's office procedure.

A Decade of Tuberculosis Control

Tuberculosis mortality in Kansas City over the past decade shows a steady decline, although hardly perceptible since 1954 when the mortality rate was 9.8 per 100,000 population. The rate for negroes was twice that of the white population in 1958, while ten years ago it was three and one-half times as great.

	Total Deaths—Rate	White	Colored
1949	140—30.9	98—24.3	42—84.
1952	105—22.4	73—17.7	32—55.1
1955	61—12.0	35— 7.9	26—43.3
1958	57— 9.7	44— 9.5	13—18.6

There are 901 active cases on our Tuberculosis Register; 264 of these were newly discovered. A comparable number were removed from the Register during the year having become inactive as evidenced by x-ray regression, and a series of negative sputa and gastric washings for tubercle bacilli.

Of the 264 new cases in our Chest Clinic there were 97 in the far advanced stage, 102 moderately advanced, 36 minimal, 7 non-pulmonary tuberculosis and 22 in which the stage was not determined.

The hard core of tuberculosis we have found is in the area north of 31st street, between Summit and Prospect. There were 258 patients admitted to our Tuberculosis Hospital; 99 of these were readmissions, 139 far advanced and very few minimal. The 901 active cases on the Register include those at our hospital, the VA Hospital, the State Sanitarium and those in the home care program on medication, under supervision by the hospital and the chest clinic.

"Only Rich Can Get Sick"

A disturbed lady writes in about doctors and hospitals:

"The medical profession is bringing socialized medicine upon itself. Only rich people can afford to be ill now.

"Doctors won't treat you at home. In a hospital they spend your money freely for nurses, unnecessary medicine, laboratory tests. I went on a medical binge—and at the conclusion my 'specialist' could find nothing wrong and referred me to Dr. Blank."

The lady is partly correct. It does cost more to get sick. Thirty years ago doctors and hospitals were cheaper. Doctors came to the home willingly and dispensed a kindly understanding.

They also dispensed rock and rye, sassafras tea, aspirin and calomel. Average life span was about 50.

Today life expectancy has been increased to 68. Of course doctors come higher, as do hospital rooms. An automobile that cost $1,000 in 1938 now costs $3,500.

In the last 20 years doctors' fees have gone up 84 per cent. But haircuts have gone up 205 per cent, movie admissions 120 per cent, baby shoes 171.

A plumber's wife had an emergency appendectomy and was rushed to the hospital. Her total medical bill came to $148. The plumber figured that the hospital would have paid more than $148 for three sets of plumbers on 8-hour schedules with the overtime figured on a 24 hour basis.

Biggest factor in the 20-year rise in hospital costs is labor. At most modern hospitals 2.2 workers are required for each patient. Latest figures show the average cost per patient per day in a hospital is $28.81. Of that, $22 is for hospital personnel.

Big reason people get mad over sick bills is that sickness comes unexpectedly and they are not ready to pay for it. They budget for food and rent. They save for a down payment on a car. They won't budget for illness. Is that any reason to socialize medicine any more than to socialize the automobile or baby shoe industries? (Dallas-Texas Morning News, 10-7-58).

Dr. Hugh Miller
Sec. Jackson County Medical Society
520 Chambers Building, City
Dear Doctor:

I would like to have communicated to the members of the Jackson County Medical Society the knowledge that a Venereal Disease Clinic has been established at 6th & Walnut for the treatment of any venereal diseases that may need attention other than those now being treated by private physicians. The object of this clinic is to stop as much infection as possible and see that no one goes without treatment. The Department will appreciate the report of any cases needing treatment and also a report of all venereal diseases.

Yours very truly,
E. H. BULLOCK
Health Director

Great Falls, Montana, Feb. 10, 1919
From: Federal Director for Montana
To: Federal Director for Missouri
Subject: Opportunity for Physician

1. Coffee Creek, Montana, one of the prosperous towns of Fergus County, population about 200, with a fine farming country tributary, is without a resident physician.

2. Will you please endeavor to locate some physician who would consider an opening of this kind, having him communicate with this office for further particulars?

SCOTT LEAVITT
Federal Director

Transactions of the Society: Capt. T. G. Orr made a most excellent and instructive presentation of his subject "Treatment of the Amputated in a Reconstruction Hospital"—showing the work of the government in caring for our injured boys. If it were not for this effort thousands would be helpless and dependent upon their relatives and friends. By this reconstruction work many of them are going to be able to be self-supporting and useful citizens. It is most fortunate that our government is able and willing to reconstruct and help these noble young fellows who offered their all for their flag. Col. M. K. Ravenel of Columbia, Mo., addressed the Society on the question of "Demobilization as it relates to Venereal Diseases." He presented the problem in such a manner as to convince the Society of need of legislative enactment. He stated that there is now before the legislation Bill No. 299, which if passed, will accept federal money appropriated toward the eradication of venereal diseases, to-wit, that every dollar that the state appropriates the federal government will advance a dollar. He stated that all the states in the Union had passed this legislation but three, Missouri being one of the three, and that unless the people of the state should become very busy this bill would not be passed at the legislation. The Society being convinced of the righteousness of this bill as set forth by Col. Ravenel moved that our representatives be instructed to most earnestly support this measure.

Bill for Physicians Pension Program In Senate Finance Committee

The legislation in Congress which will provide for pension programs for self-employed persons, H.R. 10, the Keogh-Simpson bill, is in the Senate Finance Committee. Hearings on this bill will be scheduled late this month.

Write to Senators Hennings and Symington of Missouri and also Carlson and Schoeppel of Kansas. Inform them why you want them to support this bill and have it reported favorably by the Finance Committee.

You will recall that this passed the House of Representatives almost unanimously. Now is the time to get it passed by the Senate.

In The Mail

Dear Bill:

I am in the process of making application for membership in the Montgomery County Maryland Medical Society. I have been asked to submit credentials, whatever they might be. Would you send them (whatever you feel is necessary relating to my "identity, qualifications and credentials") to Mr. John W. Loy, Executive Secretary, Montgomery County Medical Society, 11228 Georgia Avenue, Suite 7, Wheaton, Maryland. Thanks much.

I appreciate seeing the Bulletin every week and I read it from cover to cover. Naturally I miss all of my old friends, but I must say that I am quite happy in my new endeavor, and I find that this type of approach to medicine is as stimulating and soul satisfying as was the actual practice of medicine. I expect in another year or so to leave my present job for an assignment for one year to a county health department, followed then by a year at a School of Public Health. Since we are very happy where we are now, I am hopeful that I can get my necessary local health department experience in Montgomery County, which is my home county, and I am anxious to get my Public Health training at Johns Hopkins.

Give my regards to Emily and to Bart.

Sincerely yours,
John W. Cashman

In the Treatment of Rheumatic Disorders Greater stability of maintenance dosage minimizes risks of hormonal imbalance

In Sterazolidin, the anti-inflammatory actions of prednisone and Butazolidin* are combined to permit lower effective dosage of each. Clinical experience has indicated that patients can be well maintained on this combination over prolonged periods with relatively low, stable dosage levels of each component, thus minimizing the problems arising from excessively high doses of corticosteroids. Other side effects have also been gratifyingly few. Antacid and spasmolytic components are contained in Sterazolidin capsules for the benefit of patients with gastric sensitivity.

Sterazolidin®: Each capsule contains prednisone 1.25 mg.; phenylbutazone 50 mg.; dried aluminum hydroxide gel 100 mg.; magnesium trisilicate 150 mg.; homatropine methylbromide 1.25 mg.
